

Measuring your Finished Opening for a Double Swing Door

The Finished Opening is the clear opening inside your jamb after all finishing, trim & flooring has been completed.

If you are replacing an existing door remember - always measure the opening and not the door

1. Measure the height of your opening at each side
2. Now measure the width of the opening at the top, middle and bottom to make sure that the opening width is constant. If the measurement is not constant (square & plumb) use the smallest measurement so the door will fit properly.

As a reference when measuring your opening, print this page and fill in the dimension boxes with a dark pen
